Don't Destroy Saucers, They Are From Space

The Air Force received a wire Wednesday from Cincinnati urging reconsideration of the order to shoot down flying saucers. The sender whose name was withheld said that advanced aerodynamics indicated the saucers were probably intercelestial origin.

HARDER TO BRUSH OFF 'FLYING SAUCERS' AS SILLY

July 31 1952 Racine (Wis.) Journal Times

Washington (NEA) For the first time, numerous and simultaneous sightings have been confirmed by official radar observers. This happened twice under almost identical circumstances on two successive Saturday nights. This new chapter in the weird flying saucer story was written in the skies over Washington for six hours before dawn on Sunday July 20 and again one week later. Airlines Pilot SC Pierman saw six objects at the same time the CAA radar did.

Hollywood, July 6: Stepin Fetchit's return to films after a 13 year absence was assured today with the signing of the Negro comedian for a major role in Universal-International's "Bend of the Snake." James Stewart is the star, Aaron Rosenberg will produce and Anthony Mann will direct. The cameras roll this month. S. George Uhlman, who agented Fetchit to screen success initially, engineered the deal.

Another rung in the ladder marking Stepin Fetchit's ascension to renewed film fame is offered by producer Joe Kaufman with a role in his upcoming Joan Crawford starrer, "Sudden Fear."

SCARED SALESMAN SAYS SAUCER SWOOP NEARLY OVERTURNS CAR

Sid Eubanks Wichita, Kansas, told police tuesday night he was almost swept from the highway by a huge flying saucer which swooped low at an amazing speed. Eubanks said the mystery object appeared as a yellow-green, then yellow-brown streak about 400 feet long, it flew very low completely reversed directions in a few seconds and disappeared into the West. He described it as a huge round ball when directly over him.

On Friday August 1, 1952 Tal Paulis was sitting out on his porch in Wrightwood a few minutes after 10 p.m. He was watching the sky. Three stars in particular. Suddenly one of the stars starts moving over the ridge of the mountain, too fast for a plane, too slow for a meteor or falling star. It went along at the same altitude until it was out of sight. Elapsed time approximately 20 seconds. His wife confirmed the sighting.

FLYING SAUCER QUERIES HAMPER AIR FORCE WORK

An Air Force spokesman said today that the queries on the flying saucers had affected the regular work. So far this year they have received 432 written reports on sightings. They said one man works full time on the queries and has had to turn over many of the questions to the Director of Military Intelligence for reply. That office has turned to the Air Technical Center at Dayton Ohio., for help .

AFTER "SNIPERS TAKE ~~TO~~ FLYING SAUCERS"

Flying saucers are bad enough, but combine em with a phanom sniper's bullet, and you've got something. Jordan M. Reifel and his wife were entertaining neighbors last night in their back yard when suddenly they heard what sounded like "a 22 caliber rifle shot and the whine of a bullet." A few minutes later, the worried Reifels said, everybody in the patio observed a formation of white things zooming over-head in the sky. Some of them thought they might be birds, Mrs. Riefel explained, "but they were going very fast and suddenly disappeared." All of this would have been discounted by Pasadena police but there were several other reports which mentioned saucers and sniper bullets also.

"SAUCERS ADD ZEST TO EVENTS OF DAY."

Two flying saucers were sighted by a woman supervisor of the Indian Ground Observation post, Col. O. S. Dresher reported yesterday. He released a copy of a report made by Mrs. Pauline Watts, who made the same report to the USAF. She said she saw the saucers at 2:40 p.m. on July 14 near two B-36 bombers. "These two round disks were stationary in the sky, very metallic and shiny, much brighter than any plane I have seen. They looked to be about one-third the size of the bombers if at the same height. Finally they took off in a straight up direction as one bomber approached closer towards them and in seconds they were gone."

"FLYING DISKS AGAIN IN SOUTHLAND"

Two flying saucers flew over Southern California yesterday and reports from witnesses flooded various media with accounts. The Lancaster Sheriff's Substation said it received six calls describing the objects which hovered ~~over~~ at about 1,000 ft. In Palmdale, CAA operations specialists, Don Benson and Ray Hollings, observed two saucers for about 30 minutes and reported them to George AFB but no jet interceptors were sent aloft. Another report came from Jack Roff, Game Harden, who spotted similar objects over Lake Hughes. And in Burbank, a silver, oblong object was observed just meandering over the city at about 8:30 a.m. by Mrs. Dick Turpin.

Terence P. Nelson, one of the observers, said he observed the saucers through binoculars for almost two hours and that one of the units hovered over the Naval Air Station for almost an hour. He said he phoned the station and that shortly thereafter the saucer disappeared over the horizon.

Major General Roger H. Mrs. Lee Allendorf and family of 6229 Montgomery Rd., Pleasant Ridge, Ohio, were awakened last Thursday, 7 August 1952, at dawn by a steady, rumbling, whirring noise. They glanced out their second story window to see a large metal object, oval in shape and "looking like the lower half of a dirigible hovering 80-90 feet over the Monte Vista Theatre." The noise from the craft was penetrating and "seemed to shake the whole house," she said. The three viewers resented the fact that the daily papers had treated their report in a light vein and hoped something might be done in a way of a thorough investigation. "JET FIGHTERS CHASE ~~AN~~ OBJECT THAT BLINKS OUT"

Chicago, Aug 23(AP)--Two Air Force jet fighters, directed by ground observers, chased a yellowish brown light in the sky last night but reported that it blinked out when they started chasing in on it. Ground observers said that when the plane gave up the chase the light reappeared and ascended rapidly into the night sky. The significance of this report is that Air Force Officers in the Chicago Filter Center said the blinking out of the light over Elgin, Ill., was reported simultaneously at 11:48 p.m. last night by the pilots and by D.C. Scott, supervisor of the center's ground observers in the Elgin area. The same object was sighted at another observation post 20 miles north and west of Elgin later in the evening.

Story of D. S. Desvergers, West Palm Beach, Florida, August 19, 1952

On the night of August 19, 1952, at 11 P.M. D. S. Desvergers, 30, a hardware salesman, who had once been a marine, and in World War II, served in Naval Intelligence, was taking some boy scouts back to West Palm Beach, Florida, from a hiking trip. The sky was clear except for a few scattered clouds, though earlier in the evening there had been some rain. They had reached an area about 12 miles southwest of West Palm Beach on a road called South Military trail, and about a quarter mile south of Lantanna Road.

In a clearing Desvergers saw a large object, perhaps 30 feet in diameter, hovering about 10 feet above the earth. When he went closer to examine it it projected a ball of fire at him. He was overcome, not so much, he later testified, by the heat or light, by the overpowering stench. He blacked out and two of the scouts summoned the police. Deputy Sheriff Martin N. Partin came on the summons and reported that Desvergers' arms and hair were singed and there were tiny holes burned in his cap. He also reported that the grass was scorched where the scoutmaster said he had encountered the object. The scouts said D. had flashed his light on the object and then he was blasted by the ball of fire and overcome. One of the scouts, Charles Stevens, said the group saw a big glowing white light coming down out of the sky, and there were about 6 reddish lights around it when it neared the ground. David Rowan, another scout, said that soon after Desvergers entered the woods, something showered sparks all over the area like a Roman Candle.

Desvergers claimed the flying object carried people who were as afraid of him as he was of them, or otherwise they would not have projected the ball of fire directly at his head. He said that high-ranking officers from Washington were in substantial agreement of what the object was, but he was not at liberty to express their opinions, fearing if he did, it might cause another Orson Welles panic.

"It's not ours," he added, and he believed whatever it was it would determine the future of all of us some day.

AP dispatch appearing in the Syracuse Post Standard, 8/24/52

By Sunday Desvergers had come down a bit and had been put through the military ringer. The previous Friday he had met with those military officials from Washington, whose names he wouldn't disclose to C. W. Cabaniss, ~~Post Time~~ staff writer of the Palm Beach Post Times. As far as he was concerned we had caught up and passed the Buck Rogers stories. He never believed in flying saucers until he was attacked by one that Tuesday night in a clearing 12 miles from town, while taking three boy scouts home from a meeting. By Sunday he had been through several physical and mental examinations and had apparently been cleared to the satisfaction of the military and the psychiatrists.

"I saw something I wish I hadn't," he said. "If there's any truth about hair standing straight up I knew mine must have stood on end when I flashed my light on that mushroom shaped object as it hovered over me hissing like a huge leaking tire." He said it smelled worse than burning flesh and that was what blacked him out.

He said he had pledged military officials not to disclose many phases of his experience. Apparently this referred to the occupants of the object. When the deputy sheriff shook him back to consciousness the object had gone. His wife, Donna Drought, and neighbors, testified that he was a man of great personal courage and nothing seemed to have scared him up to this experience. They have a 7-months old son, J. D. (Skipper) Desvergers 3rd. After his experience "Sonny" said he has been flooded with wires, phone calls and letters and was offered large sums of money to answer just 10 questions on radio program. National magazines as well as scientists from research laboratories have been pursuing him too. He said he could use the money but had pledged his word to the military investigators to withhold such answers as they had requested. "I believe it's for the good of the people that they don't know until the information is released from the authorities," he said.

Apparently he had no idea where the object or its crew had come from, though on that same day he was being interviewed in Palm Beach Dr. Otto Struve, told the convention of Western Amateur Astronomers at Berkely, Calif, that there are probably thousands of planets planets along the Milky Way capable of supporting intelligent life, but the chances are that the inhabitants reaching us aboard flying saucers were nil.

Astronomers figure that in the Milky Way there are 1000 to 10,000 planets resembling this earth but one of these planets picked at random would be about 50,000 light years away, that would be 300 quadrillion miles (300000000000000000 miles) travelling at the speed of light it would have taken them 50,000 years to reach here, according to Dr. Struve, who is the head of the department of Astronomy at University of California.

He has traveled extensively to remote areas of the world with many scientific expeditions. Author of six books, he also contributes extensively to many leading national periodicals.)

By IVAN T. SANDERSON.

Sutton, W. Va. (NANA) - At sundown on the evening of Sept 12 a fleet of pear-shaped objects, glowing dull red to white, according to their speed of travel, flew in formation over northeastern West Virginia less than 1,000 feet above ground and crashed in Braxton County. Everybody in the state knows about this and thousands in Braxton saw the things, two were nearly hit by them. Eight people could have touched one, but they were too confused and frightened, because something came out of the object.

On-the-spot investigations by this reporter also have brought to light three following additional facts overlooked in the first reports. The exact point of landing of three of these seven objects is now known. Apart from a terrific smell, which long since has gone, nothing but some white substance which is being analyzed in Charleston has been found. One landing still has to be investigated, and another requires additional search because the area is densely wooded, mountainous and uninhabited.

The twelve-foot, glowing, green monster that has been widely reported as having been seen alongside a glowing cone that landed on a mountain pasture near the tiny village of Flatwood in this county, was not a man, or a monster, but some sort of machine like a diving bell. If the two frightened adults and five intelligent young boys who say that they saw it are not all the most experiences liars who ever lived. We have questioned these youngsters separately and together, with and without their elders, for two days, and we can report definitely that they are not lying.

They have drawn pictures of what they saw and they keep saying that it was a ten-foot man because the top of it was level with a branch of a tree ten feet above ground and its shape was something like the upper half of a hooded man. They said this because they never have seen a modern, deep-water diving suit.

What they describe is a truncated cone with a smaller cone on top of it. This little cone has a circular transparent window in front . . .
